According to the Italian side, the Italian-Uzbek business forum held in Rome in June this year for the first time in the history of bilateral relations with participation of about 100 companies and organizations will help to expand cooperation between the countries, including on energy, climate change and mechanical engineering.

The sides supported Tashkent's policy toward Afghanistan and noted the successful experience of the region's countries, primarily Uzbekistan, in maintaining contacts with Kabul. "Thanks to the assistance of Uzbekistan, the world community has the opportunity to provide humanitarian assistance to the population of Afghanistan", the Italian side pointed out.

In conclusion, Italian officials noted that Central Asia is an important geographical and geopolitical region for the development of international relations not only for Italy, but also for Europe. In this regard, it was hoped that the 3rd ministerial meeting in the format "Italy - Central Asia" planned at the end of this year will allow to discuss regional aspects of cooperation and bring it to a new level.
